The Estate

Situated near the idyllic town of Lagrasse, the vineyard is 130 hectares (320 acres) of beautiful land, bounded by hills on 3 sides, and divided into parcels, each planted with a specific grape. With its natural spring, Pech-Latt's grape-growing pedigree can be traced back almost 2,000 years. Expansion in 2014 brought a new vineyard from a neighboring land to Pech-Latt and since that vineyard was not certified organic (like the rest of the estate), the winery thought they would produce a rosé from this wine while the vineyard management is converted over to organic practices.

Wine Making

This wine is made from the two gentle grapes of the Languedoc, Cinsault and Grenache. The thinner skinned varieties allow for some skin contact necessary to impart character and finesse, without extracting too much color and tannic structure. The result is a racy rosé that has been cold-fermented at low temperatures and aged on the fine lees prior to bottling.

Tasting Notes

Bright raspberry and cranberry fruit dominate the nose with a touch of herb perfume and sweet spices. There is a nice minerality to this wine that ends with a fleur-de-sel note that keeps the wine savory and alive!
