Dolcetto d'Alba "Rochettevino"

DOC

Brand Highlights

- 100% Dolcetto from the Piedmont region of Italy
- Veteran winemaker Gianni Voerzio is joined by Mirko & Federica Martini to introduce a new premium family of wines from grapes indigenous to the Piedmont region
- Rochettevino is the name of the vineyard—most vines are more than 20 years old planted in sand and clay

The Estate

VoerzioMartini introduces the newest generation of wine makers in Piedmont, Italy. Gianni Voerzio has been making wine for more than 30 years in these vineyards....he is now joined by twins Mirko & Federica Martini who will continue the brand's terroir-driven winemaking tradition. The vineyards are located in Langhe, a wine region within Piedmont known for its beautiful rolling hills topped by picturesque towns. With eight hectares of total vineyard land located in the La Morra region of the Langhe, the wines from VoerzioMartini emphasize the characteristics of the soil and terroir of this fast growing wine region.

Wine Making

The winery is located in La Morra. Federika handles the operational side of the business while Mirko is the head winemaker, with guidance and mentoring from Gianni. Mirko's approach is a more traditional style—lots of concentration, less new oak and larger barrels for aging. All grapes are harvested by hand using small crates to prevent crushing. Fermentation of the Dolcetto D'Alba takes place in stainless steel tanks and lasts for about 20 days. No wood aging. Instead, the wine is lightly aged in stainless steel.

Tasting Notes

Bright ruby red color with shades of deep purple. On the nose, find delicate hints of violet, black cherry & blueberry aromas. It is full and harmonic on the palate with silky tannins and a hint of minerality.
